Benefit calculations for pension plans

KEY BENEFITS

Savings

In-house systems are generally more expensive than commercial solutions due to economies of scale which allow external systems to spread development costs across an entire industry. There are no additional fees for new releases or development projects that you ask us to do.

Efficiency

You can code and produce calculations more efficiently and with complete documentation and confidence using ProAdmin. We share the best of ProVal, the market leader in valuation software, including our benefit expression language that eliminates traditional programming, reducing setup time from weeks and months to just days.

Flexibility

ProAdmin is the premier benefit calculator designed to handle the most complex plan designs but with the most straight-forward setup process. Our server component integrates seamlessly into your environment, and accepts calculation requests from your call center, voice response unit and web portal.

KEY FEATURES

- Benefit estimates, final calculations and batch processing
- Glass box with emphasis on transparency, it includes complete documentation as well as detailed output
- Robust regression testing tools including individual "run and compare", desktop calculation tester for all data sources, and server tester based on XML records
- Integrated Fulfillment Tool produces packages of documents based on MS Word mail merge
- Census data for desktop calculator accessed via ADO, so can reside in MS Access, MS SQL, Oracle, etc. with no restrictions on data structure
- Server-based calculator component integrates with your existing administration technology, with participant data and calculation results passed via XML
- Scalable with sub-second calculation processing
- ProVal files, if available, can be used as a starting point to further decrease setup time
